

“Online Course Selection Notice” for First Semester of 2026

Academic Year, National Formosa University

I. Online preliminary enrollment

1. Old students, students that have delay graduation : students who need to select their courses online during primary selection period.
2. Screening principles of course selection operations ; during primary selection, courses that have population limitations operate by order (students that first do the selection doesn't mean that they definitely get what they want) . The results of the primary selection will be announced during the announcement time.
3. Priority of previous batch : Current class >students of this department have delayed graduation >students of other departments that have delayed graduation > senior class of this department >junior class of our department > other departments. (Time period for adding and dropping courses adopt the registration system to select courses. The system only determines whether it allows course selection, and does not provide the promise of priority. If classes want to enjoy the priority of selecting courses, they have to select their courses during primary selection, to ensure their own rights.)
4. Priority of literacy courses : Students that have delayed graduation >Senior students of Four-Year College of Technology > Senior Student of Two-Year College of Technology > Junior Year of Four-Year College of Technology >First Year of Two-Year College of Technology >Sophomore Year of Four-Year College of Technology >Freshman Year of Four-Year College of Technology .
5. Priority of Graduate School Courses : Current Class >PhD Student for this department >Masters program of this our department > PhD program of other departments > Masters program of other departments >Students that have delayed graduation > Senior year students of college.
6. For elective courses that have population limits or courses that are assigned by volunteer, please retain the time period of that course. And if there are already other courses that occupy such time period, then that student loses the priority to take that course.
7. If there are situations of excess selection, conflict of time tables, the system will not accept.

II. Online add/drop selection

1. The adding and dropping courses of this semester adopt the online registering and filtering method. This needs to be done by selection order, and when meeting conditions of excess selection, conflict of time tables, the system will decline this selection.
2. Please select courses online according to the regulations of the maximum and minimum limit of credit points : for details, please check the third point of the regulations, the one regarding students selecting courses.
3. Students should check the results online after it have been announced, to make sure that they have successfully added and dropped courses as they wish.

4. If students did not select their courses online, due to neglect of saving data properly or not catching up on time etc. personal reasons, and hence influence issues such as credit point fees and graduation qualification; then in order to be fair, that student cannot add or drop any courses. 「V、2.」 are an exception in this case, in which they can be subsidized.
